Y5 R3e Can identify the text type according to key features Test 3

How to make a bird feeder. You will need: margarine tub, different coloured paper or paint, glue, hole punch, wool. Empty the margarine tub. Decorate it by sticking on pieces of brightly coloured paper. Then wait for it to dry. Use a hole punch to put four holes in the top of the margarine tub, so that you have two holes facing each other. Thread some wool through each of the holes and tie the two ends together. Finally, fill your bird feeder with bird food. Hang the bird feeder outside.

1. What is this text type?

2. How might you structure and organise it to help the reader understand it better and read it more easily?

Iceland is a land of surprises. A land of experiences. A land of adventure. Located in the North Atlantic Ocean, just outside the Arctic Circle, it boasts a dramatic landscape capped by active volcanos and fringed with rugged coastlines. For those who love the outdoors, it's got everything from spectacular views to specialist sports.

Heavy rain rattled against his window. Even though it was early afternoon, the light was fading dramatically. A long, slow rumble announced the approach of the heart of the storm.

Shadows aren't really a thing: they're a lack of something – light. It is light that allows us to see. Light bounces off most surfaces in all directions until it is eventually absorbed, with darker objects absorbing more of the light while lighter ones reflect more.
